Kidnap Case

Jury Considers Dolan's
Testimony Untrue in Saying All of Ransom
Taken to Station

Kansas City, Dec. 19 (AP)—One of the officers who arrested kidnapper Carl Austin Hall has been indicted on a charge of perjury by a federal grand jury probing the missing Greenlease ransom money.

The indictment was returned late yesterday against Elmer Dolan, 25, shortly after he had appeared before the grand jury.

Dolan and Lt. Louis Shoulders arrested Hall in St. Louis Oct. 6. Dolan was suspended by the St. Louis Police Board Dec. 10 pending a hearing on charges growing out of the handling of the arrest.

Shoulders resigned from the police force in October, charging the investigation into the arrest was "assassinating and destroying" his character.

Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady were executed yesterday for the kidnapping and slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, the son of a wealthy Kansas City automobile dealer.

Testimony Conflicts

Hall contended to the end that two suitcases containing the $600,000 ransom money were not taken to a police station with him after his arrest. Later $303,720 of the ransom money was missing.

Dolan said both suitcases were taken to the station with Hall.

Several persons who were in the station when Hall was taken in testified they saw no suitcases. Shoulders at one time said he and Dolan had taken the suitcases to the station at the time Hall was booked. Later he said he "slipped" the suitcases into the station 10 minutes after Hall was taken in.

Grand Jury Charge

In the indictment the grand jury charged:

"The testimony of Elmer Dolan, as he then and there well knew and believed, was untrue and false in that the suitcases mentioned . . . containing the ransom money were not taken into the police station at the time or in the manner alleged in the testimony."

The source said also that the group, which included GOP legislative leaders, had agreed unanimously to press for a local option system of permanent persons registration of voters when the Legislature convened next month.

Another Session Slated

The party leaders met Thursday in Albany and yesterday at the Schenectady home of Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck.

Another policy-making session will be held before the Legislature convenes Jan. 6, the informant said, but no date has been set.

He reported that the group was "considering" a bond issue for mental hospitals, to be repaid in part by surpluses from the state's war bonus "taxes on cigarettes and personal income."

It was considered unlikely, however, that information about the proposal would have been permitted to leak out unless the plan was sure of a spot in the administration's program.

He reported that the group also discussed the delicate problem of balancing the 1954-55 budget. Gov. Dewey's proposals for compulsory automobile liability insurance and compulsory inspection of motor vehicles, as well as highway safety, education, housing and personal health.

Others elected were:

Frederick Dirks, reelected vice-president; Edward O'Connor, secretary and A. J. Burns, reelected as treasurer.

The tentative date of the annual banquet has been set for Jan. 20, it was announced this morning. One of the special guests will be Frank Mazzetti of the Bronx, newly-elected state president. An outstanding speaker from the industrial field also is being secured for the annual program.

The pilots said they will be together again soon.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 19, 1953

VITAL ROLE OF NEWSPAPERS

For nearly a dozen days the folk of New York City went largely without their regular newspapers. The experience of the recent strike afforded a fairly startling lesson in the place of the newspaper in modern life.

Radio and television stations strove energetically to fill the gap, but they succeeded only in a limited way.

To get any news at all, a man had to become a clock-watcher, keeping a wary eye on broadcast times. A newspaper imposes no such tyranny. He can read it whenever his fancy dictates—even next week. But broadcasting is like carving one's initials in the water.

Furthermore, a man could not easily shut his ears to the broadcast news that didn't interest him. But reading a newspaper is for most people a highly selective business. The eye fastens upon only those items which appeal; the rest can be treated as if they didn't exist.

Then, too, the radio-TV approach was discontinued more than ever to be mainly that of a "bulletin service"—a serving up of briefly told stories. These were repeated over and over, but the repetition did not add to the public's knowledge.

What was lacking was the enriching detail, and the priceless interpretation without so much of modern-day news wants force. Here and there, certain newscasts from Washington and some foreign capitals filled a part of this interpretive need. Yet there was all too little of it.

The whole ordeal was a convincing demonstration that the newspaper is not likely to be displaced by radio, TV, or any other conceivable electronic wonder. The newspaper has a lasting quality, an expansiveness, and a convenience as an information tool which none of its competitors can match.

A different kind of story, no less compelling, could be told by the people who rely upon the newspaper as an advertising medium or for critical appraisals of entertainment and cultural events. The merchants, smack up against Christmas, felt keenly the absence of their familiar sounding board. New plays, movies, and concert performers either suffered for want of standard critical judgments, or postponed presentation until the strike was over.

A googol, a noted mathematician has figured, is the number one followed by one hundred zeroes—and a googolplex is one followed by a googol of zeros. So who cares what we call the impossible addition of the family budget?

Big words spouted by small people are apt to have little meaning.

A PROMISE OF LIGHT

Historians may write that in the Atomic Age the United States of America made many mistakes. In the perspective of time our blunders may loom large. Yet those who record our history will have to note that in 1953, with the nations of the world lined up for a possible struggle that could destroy civilization, with an armaments race for weapons more destructive than anything dreamed of in the past, with a fear abroad in the world that was never known before, the President of the United States came before an international body to make yet another plea for sanity, to offer the genius and resources of his country to an effort in that direction.

President Eisenhower's speech was a clear statement of the American belief that war is never inevitable, that mankind can rise above the level of animal brutality, that the dignity of men is sufficient to enable them to turn the wonders of science away from death and destruction and back to life.

It was a speech that men of goodwill have been waiting for, a declaration of hope and faith in the essential goodness of men. It was a practical plan for eliminating the tension that troubles people in every country.

Perhaps the Soviet Union may reject the plan. Bright dreams for peace have been dashed many times before on the rocks of

TELEVISION AND NEWS

At home, I listen to the radio but I practically never look at television. The program that suits my tastes most adequately is called "Music Through the Night," which commences at 1 a. m. and runs on until six or seven o'clock in the morning. Most often I read during part of that period and have the radio on, thus far without complaint from the family or the neighbors.

The other day, in Chicago, I awoke at a proletarian hour and having no radio, I turned on television. I do not recall which network produced what I saw but I stuck to it while I breakfasted and read the newspapers and dressed, just to see what they did. It was not so good, particularly at breakfast when one's soul needs to be at peace.

Apparently they play the same show over and over again. I am sure I saw it at least two and a half times before I cut it off. A tired-looking man was trying so hard to be funny at that unfunny hour of the morning. He had some girls there who, he said, had stayed up all night just to be on this show. They did not look like girls who had been up all night, after a day of hard work. There was not a haggard line in the lot. Besides, what they said and did on this television show was so banal that they could have gone to bed without loss to anybody.

A monkey came on the act. What does a monkey do on an act? It scratches itself. That's what this monkey did. After watching him for a while, I got itchy myself. Fortunately the monkey was taken away. Somebody was put on to give the news. I had already read the news the night before. Also in the morning newspapers. Maybe some people do not read and only get what they have by ear. It is a way of living but I am sure that I cannot learn anything by bulletins and short takes and a fellow reading from paste-ups.

Then to have the same thing repeated like a nickel-in-the-slot machine performance was too much.

Naturally, the commercials were numerous, prolonged, uninteresting and a deterrent to enjoyment. Advertisements in a newspaper can be taken or left at will. If you refuse to read them, nobody can sue you. My wife reads the ads before she reads the news. It is a matter of taste. She says that ads are news—for her. I only earn the money; she spends it. So she needs to have somebody tell her how to spend it.

But these commercials on television come up suddenly, in the middle of something. If you don't want to listen to them, you have to get up, walk across the room, turn the darn thing off until you calculate the jingles are dead. Then you walk some more, turn it on, and get caught with beer or spaghetti or something.

During the newspaper strike in New York, I was astonished that both radio and television lacked the initiative to set up a news service that would supply the community's needs. I listened every day for a week to the radio, having it on all the time. I got flashes, bulletins, some amateurish background, but it was inadequate.

The radio companies may say, with some justice, that they did not know how long the newspaper strike would last and that therefore they could not set up a complex news organization such as newspapers have. Furthermore, they have commitments which require them to show particular serials about broken love to take care of soap, breakfast food and cigarette advertising. Also, they like to cater to all tastes, including those who have no taste. It is like the argument of the advertising agencies against sponsoring controversial persons on the ground that as many Democrats as Republicans smoke cigarettes and for that matter, so do Socialists, Communists and even spies. Therefore, the best kind of person to have on the air is someone who is bland.

So, we go back to the newspapers, after this strike, with the sure knowledge that the printed word is here to stay and that radio and television, while they have their particular places, will never replace the newspaper as a means of recording the course of events.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MANY HEART PATIENTS ABLE TO WORK

In many organizations it is customary for the manager or president to have a talk with an employee who is soon reaching his age of retirement (65 to 70) and discuss with him his plans for future years. While he may not be as useful in his present position, or a younger employee is better fitted and earned promotion, there is still much usefulness and experience in the older employee. By working out plans for lighter employment, the discussion of his pension, the older employee may give several more years of usefulness to his employer or other employers.

Someone with the thought of preventing older individuals from overworking themselves made the statement that any one past 50 years of age should not lift even his little finger unnecessarily.

What about the work or occupation of the older heart patient? In Geriatrics, Minneapolis, Drs. L. H. Bronstein, L. J. Goldwater and B. Kresky gave a report on persons who are 55 years or over at the time heart disease begins. "Records of 580 patients revealed that many patients in their 60's and 70's with heart defects can and do work successfully." However, it must be admitted that when heart disease first develops after 55 years of age, the strength or working capacity of the heart decreases more rapidly than when heart disease develops at an earlier age.

A study of the employment needs of 33 patients over 55 years of age with degenerative heart disease showed that 20 were working and 6 more were considered employable; only 7 were unable to work because of heart disability." This study and statistical analyses indicate that counseling and placement agencies should interview all heart patients whom the physician considers employable. The physician should recommend the number of hours per day or week and amounts of carrying, lifting, walking and traveling a patient can do.

Through selective placement and a reasonable amount of medical supervision, a considerable number of heart patients in their 60's and 70's can remain in useful employment."

From the standpoint of elderly men with heart disease, it is encouraging to know that the majority are employable. The knowledge of this fact should be known to all concerned, that is, to employers, to employees, and to the families of these heart patients. To the patient himself it will lift his morale that he can still be useful to the community and be still able to help support his family.

However, as stated above, all heart cases who wish to continue work must be carefully selected and through this "selective" placement and with a reasonable amount of supervision, can make their contribution to their community.

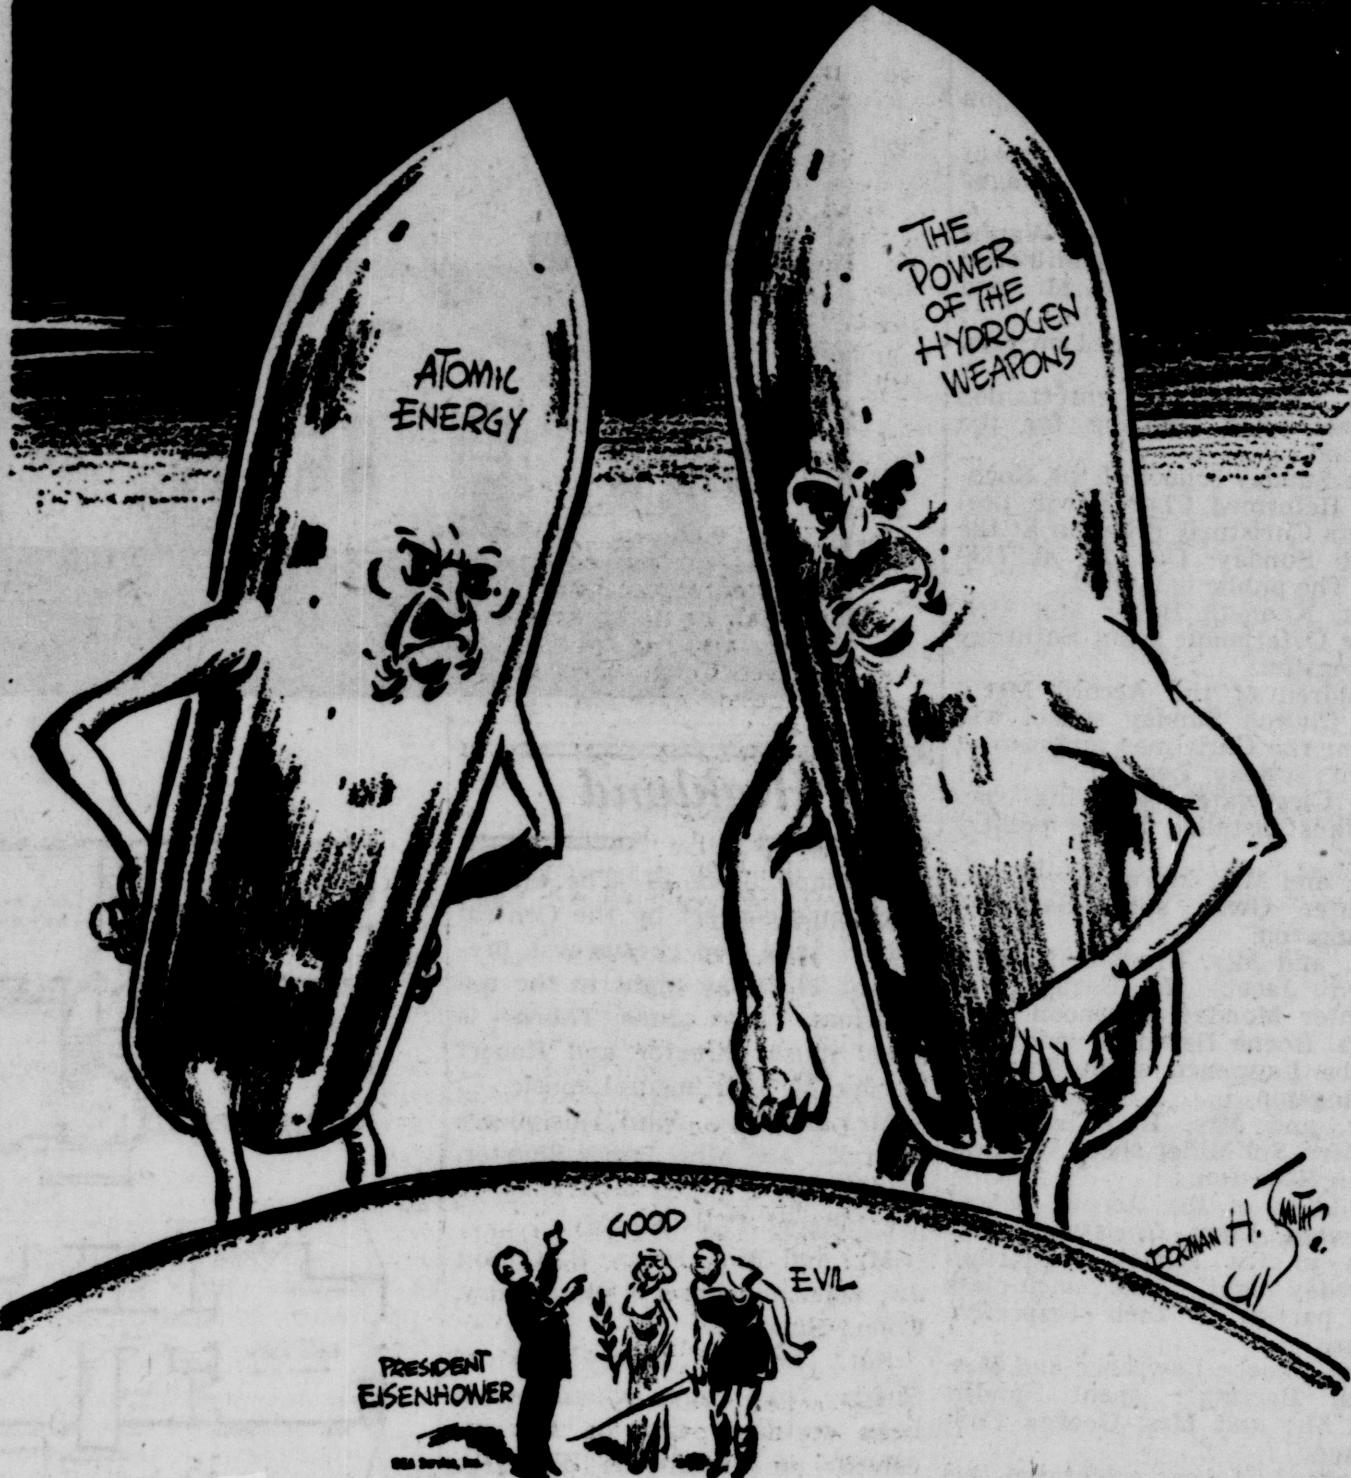

Why Worry About Your Heart?

Your physician can tell you after one thorough examination the condition of your heart and remove your worry or give you advice. stubbornness and hatred. But every American can be proud that our President made it, that it in a time of chaos and approaching darkness the American people, speaking through their elected leader, uttered calm words and offered a promise of light.

"All Right Now, Folks... How Much Am I Bid?"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The most important question about the Eisenhowers plan for developing peaceful uses of atomic energy is, "What happens next?"

There is considerable fear that, like the President's great foreign policy speech to the U. S. newspaper editors last April, the atomic-energy plan may die on the vine for lack of active cultivation.

President Eisenhower's plan was presented on the closing day of the United Nations General Assembly session. So there is nothing more that organization can do about it, officially, till next year.

The President did suggest that the subject be discussed in subcommittee of the UN Disarmament Commission, whose creation was proposed by the United States Nov. 18. The full commission now consists of representatives of the 11 members of the Security Council, plus Canada.

Two UN disarmament commissions have labored for seven years without accomplishing a thing.

They have been caught helplessly between the conflicting Communist and anti-Communist disarmament plans.

Differ on Control Methods

While the impression gained from first reports of the Eisenhower plan was that it proposed a ban on the use of atomic weapons and a cut of all armed forces by one-third. The western powers proposed a balanced reduction of armed forces and a system for inspection and verification of all weapons including atomic ones.

Out of all this discouraging lack of progress grew the American plan of November to have disarmament studied by a subcommittee made up of only five powers, America, Britain, France, Russia and Canada. It would meet in closed sessions to facilitate negotiations.

It is this subcommittee to which President Eisenhower proposes that his new plan be referred. The President suggested that this subcommittee report its progress to the Security Council by Sept. 1, 1954.

This is a reasonably safe interval, for as of today the United States does not have any detailed plans on how the President's proposal could be practically carried out.

The Atomic Energy Commission technicians, who would know how much fissionable material would have to be allocated, weren't put to work on this problem before President Eisenhower made his speech. One such project might be running an atomic reactor that could provide enough power to pump water from behind the dikes of Holland.

Different Approach

While the impression gained from first reports of the Eisenhower plan was that it proposed a ban on the use of atomic weapons and a cut of all armed forces by one-third. The western powers proposed a balanced reduction of armed forces and a system for inspection and verification of all weapons including atomic ones.

International control of atomic energy from the top down having failed to win acceptance, this idea was to build ultimate control from the bottom up. Supplying fissionable materials for a few small research projects might be the beginning. From this full international control might grow.

The question is how much material and where would the laboratories or the reactors be located?

Also, what reactors? The United States itself does not possess an economically sound atomic power unit that would be competitive with commercial power.

These questions, and a hundred like them, are now bothering the new atomic bureaucracy of Washington. There is a further detail of who will push this plan before the UN to keep it alive. Ambassador Lodge has been U. S. member of the disarmament commission, but it has met only a few times this year. From now on it will be a full-time assignment for experts if the plan is to succeed.

Four Men Receive 10-Day Suspended Sentences Today

Four persons who were arrested shortly before midnight at Jesse's Restaurant, 42 Gill street, on charges of disorderly conduct, received 10-day suspended sentences in city court this morning.

One of the four, Arthur Williams, 21, of 215 North Hamilton street, Poughkeepsie, was also fined $5.

The other three were Jerry J. Powell, 28, Milford L. Oates, 19, and Albert S. Oates, 34, all of Milton.

The arrests were made by Officers Everett Ennix, William Slover, Meyer Levy and Harold Bowers on complaint of Isaac Jones, a patron.

Michael Strawgate

Michael Strawgate of 197 West Chestnut street died Friday afternoon after a short illness. A spokesman for the Griffon Cutlery Company of New York, Mr. Strawgate was well known locally. He traveled throughout the southern United States. He was a member of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee of which McCarthy is chairman—a proposal aimed at the frequent refusals of witnesses to answer questions, on the ground their testimony might incriminate them.

Insists Issue Will Come

McCarthy has insisted that the Communists in government issue will be paramount in next year's campaign for control of Congress. Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) of the House Un-American Activities Committee, has given signs of sharing the Wisconsin senator's views on the subject.

But Eisenhower has said his administration will do such a good job rooting Communists out of federal agencies that the people will be applauding this as an accomplished fact by next November.

The President contends that the legislative program will be the chief platform upon which Republican candidates for the Senate and House must stand.

Foreign policy issues, including some on which Republicans have differed publicly, also seemed likely to come up at today's concluding legislative conferences.

One of those invited, Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), is author of a proposed constitutional amendment to limit treaty-making powers. He has said he will force Senate action on it despite opposition by the President, Secretary of State Dulles, Brownell and other cabinet members.

President Backs Wood, Sr.

Theodore C. Wood, Sr., of 332 Broadway, who for 24 years operated the Woods Bottling Works, died at his residence early today following a long illness. The present business at 7-9 Jansen avenue is being operated by Theodore Charles Wood, Jr., who took over the business about seven years ago at the time of his father's illness. This is the fourth generation in charge of the local bottling works plant. The concern was established in 1850 by Mr. Wood's grandfather, Abram Wood. The funeral will be held at 9:15 a. m. Monday from the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, with a Mass of requiem at 10 o'clock at St. Charles Church, Gardiner. Burial will be in St. Charles Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home this evening and Sunday afternoon and evening. The Rosary will be offered at 8 p. m. Sunday.

Desmond Against

that his proposals would block contributions to political parties by:

1. "Road contractors and other business officials who sell products or services to the state or localities.

2. "Holders of, or applicants for, liquor, tavern or race track licenses."

Richard H. Balch, the state Democratic chairman, has charged "impropriety" in the administration of the State Harness Racing Commission, State Liquor Authority, and State Thruway Authority.

Gov. Dewey has replied with a blast at what he termed "criminally corrupted organizations like Tammany Hall or its spokesmen." The governor also has appointed a Moreland Act Commission to investigate the state's eight harness racing tracks.

Desmond declared that "men of integrity and intellect" "shudder at the thought of venturing into government dominated by parities indebted to liquor vendors, race track officials and other special interests."

Hits Favors Angle

"No official of any party is happy at having to go hand in hand with mill owners, race track officials, and road contractors for contributions to campaigns. But they feel trapped by seeming necessity."

The senator declared that in return "financial agents" were in a position to demand favors. "These," he said, "include jobs, contracts, licenses and special privileges that sometimes come under the heading of 'protection'."

The senator said the two measures would be part of a series he planned to propose. He previously has outlined a proposal to fine or imprison any legislators who take fees for representing clients or constituents before state departments, except the courts.

Another Desmond proposal would establish a seven-member governor's commission to study ways of "cleaning up politics."

Fruit Growers

duction may be expected for the United States, if average weather prevails, and New York's 1954 crop may be as large or larger than this year's. Demand for wine varieties may be as strong as in 1953, but prices may not be as high.

Sweet Cherries — New York's sweet cherry production next year may be slightly higher than this year, reversing the country-wide prospect of a slightly smaller crop. Prices may remain about the same as in 1953.

Reviewing the total agriculture picture, Palmer reported that Professors M. C. Bond and C. A. Bratton, Cornell economists, expect labor and other production costs to remain high, and that farmers face another year of high costs and low prices.

No sharp price drop is indicated, the economists stressed, but the general price level is expected to decline somewhat, and farm prices may level off. Little change is expected in wage rates because of high employment in industry. Fertilizers, insecticides, building material and machinery prices may go down slightly. It will pay to "shop" when buying in 1954.

Despite the drought conditions this year, total agricultural production in 1953 was the third largest on record, with a resulting carryover of some products. Reductions in acreage allotments for wheat, cotton, and corn will mean an increase in production of other crops.

High employment—while keeping farm labor costs up—also will mean a continued good demand for farm products, the economists pointed out.

Unhurt as Car Overturns

A 1948 sedan driven by Joseph Mendock, 25, of Connelly, skidded on a curve, struck a rock bank, rolled completely over and came to rest on its wheels against a Central Hudson pole along Millbrook road near Connelly about 5:30 a. m. today, according to a sheriff's office report. Mendock, who was riding alone, was reported unhurt. Deputy Sheriff Arthur B. Smith, who investigated, described the vehicle as a "total wreck."

Utility Pole Broken

An utility pole in Port Ewen was struck and broken about 2:30 a. m. today by a vehicle driven by Edward A. Trombley, Jr., of Purvis street, the sheriff's office reported. The right front fender and frame of the automobile were damaged, but no personal injuries were listed, according to the report by Deputy Sheriff Frank Crnkovic, who investigated. Trombley was headed north toward Kingston, when the accident occurred, the report said.

THE ONE-WING BOASTY BIRD can't make headway with one wing tied, but still he wants to keep trying

A BOASTY BIRD is an advertiser who purposely flies in the face of experience — even though he knows it's harder that way.

He'd rather climb stairs on his hands and knees than take a comfortable ride in an elevator.

And he'd rather use an advertising method that might succeed in place of a method that doesn't fail.

Fortunately he's a rare creature.

The advertising that always does its job, of course, is newspaper advertising. It's basic.

Very few manufacturers or advertisers, for example, would even dream of trying to introduce a new product without using newspapers.

Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in town . . . regularly . . . day in and day out.

And today more people are reading more newspapers than at any time in history.

No wonder it's basic for advertisers!

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

THE KINDNESS OF ONE NOT ENOUGH

An unhappy situation is explained in this letter: "Several months ago I was invited to a gathering at a friend's house. This gathering consisted of a group of young married women who meet once a week in one another's houses and play cards. I was both surprised and pleased when, during the course of the afternoon, the hostess asked me if I would like to become a regular member of the group. Being a newcomer, I welcomed the opportunity of making new friends. I soon discovered, however, that the entire group must not have been in agreement about my becoming a member because some of them were politely indifferent to me at future meetings and I felt like an intruder. I would like to withdraw quietly, but how can I do this without seeming unappreciative of the person who asked me to join?"

Go to her and tell her frankly how you feel—that you appreciate her kindness but that you can't help thinking you were put up without the consent of all the other members, some of whom have not been very friendly, and that it would be better for you to resign.

Social Impossibility

Dear Mrs. Post: Several of my friends are in the habit of calling the parents of their friends. Mrs. C. Mr. P. etc., instead of calling them Mrs. Carlton, Mr. Potter, etc. This does not strike me as being very polite. I know that it is quite usual in business, but is it considered good taste socially? I would very much like to have your opinion of this.

Answer: It is certainly not in good taste socially.

Marking Door Knocker

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct to mark a front-door knocker with the last name only, or are the initials included, too?

Answer: Either way. The determining factor is usually the size of the name space on the knocker or the plate, and since this is not apt to be very long, the last name alone is chosen.

Where and how future in-laws should meet after the engagement is explained by Mrs. Post in leaflet E-1. "Engagements." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Andrew P. Vozdik, president of the local chamber, also is a member of the Youth Council and has been one of the few who had recognized the real need of the Council. The Chamber through the efforts of their president is one of the few important town organizations to give more than just token assistance. The Council has been operating completely without funds and has asked for no contributions to carry on its important work.

The meeting which was held at the Exempt's Rooms in the municipal building also discussed the need for bus service for the residents of the communities of West Saugerties, Blue Mountain, High Woods and others. Joseph Crotty, as bus operator of Veteran was present and expressed interest in the project but doubted if a state franchise could be secured for a service between Woodstock and Saugerties which would serve the communities in question.

Survey Suggested

Crotty suggested that the Chamber make a public opinion survey of the residents in these areas and that this might be instrumental in getting the franchise.

The local group also voted to send an official letter of welcome to IBM rather than send a delegation as was originally planned. A committee was named to draft such a letter and will be signed by Mayor George Holmes and Supervisor Peter Williams. The drafting committee will include Andrew P. Vozdik, John C. Sauer and Robert S. Russell.

With a feeling of gratitude for the mutual blessings of the past year, and in an effort to keep Saugerties a friendly village, I now, Hereby proclaim that in keeping with the spirit of the Christmas season, parking meters in the village of Saugerties will not be in operation for shoppers from Monday, Dec. 21, through Thursday, Dec. 24.

THE LITTLE TREE THAT TALKED

A Christmas Story

By WALT SCOTT

PW's Get . . .

deadline.

The letter actually is a statement allied explainers planned to use during interviews with the prisoners.

The UN command also was reported planning loudspeaker broadcasts to the prisoners before the Wednesday deadline.

Both pro-Communist and anti-Communist prisoners in neutral custody made preparations for celebrating Christmas in their barbed wire compounds.

Gifts Delivered

The Indian command said it had received from the Communists and delivered a truckload of athletic equipment to the pro-Communist north camp, along with decorations and colored tissue paper. Holiday food also has been supplied for the Americans, 1 Briton and 327 South Koreans in the camp.

Some 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans in the anti-Red south camp will get Christmas delicacies from the UN command, the Indian command said. And the Indian command said it would distribute gifts from outside organizations, including several plane loads of food from Formosa.

The letter addressed to the 22 Americans made no promises. It appealed to them to weigh their decision carefully before it is too late.

To Be Listed AWOL

After Wednesday prisoners who have not come home will be listed as absent without leave. A month later they automatically will be classed as deserters.

"Now is the time to seriously consider that there is nothing more humiliating than to discover that one has been a fool, used for someone's questionable purposes and then later tossed aside like an old shoe," the letter declares.

"Be certain in your mind that you are not just grist for the propaganda mill."

"... A reasonable decision requires a thoughtful evaluation of family ties. If these mean anything at all, it should be remembered that these, like cake, cannot be had and eaten too. You cannot forsake family ties and have them too."

The letter was the first direct appeal to the American prisoners who did not return home from Communist prison camps last summer.

The UN command called it a "statement of principle" listing seven suggestions to the American captives.

The seven suggestions, briefly:

1. A free choice must be between "alternatives."

2. A free choice requires correct information.

3. Remember your families.

4. Make sure your decision is free of "coercion and duress."

5. Be wary of "promises of future rewards..."

6. You can serve mankind best among your own people.

7. You must be fully aware of the techniques of education, persuasion and indoctrination which may have been employed in bringing you to your decision.

When the Repatriation Commission meets Monday it also will take up a long protest from 77 pro-Communist South Koreans who were not interviewed before and 1 Briton.

Second Prisoner

American prisoners to write a letter renouncing life in the United States.

Last Monday Pfc. Richard R. Tenneson wrote his mother, Mrs. Portia Howe of Alden, Minn., saying, "I know that you want to take me home with you, but I have made up my mind and I am not going."

Mrs. Howe flew to Tokyo in an attempt to see her son and is waiting here now on the slim chance that he may change his mind.

Letter Brings Sobs

Batchelor's letter brought sobs from his tiny Japanese wife.

"I don't understand," she said. "He says he wants to see me and his friends and go to the places we used to go."

"He may be a Communist now—he's been in prison camp so long. But if he came back here he would forget it soon. Very soon."

The letter combined the words of a lonesome soldier to his wife and phrases of Communist dogma.

Batchelor wrote that he was homesick for the parties we all used to go on together. And I also long to stroll along the Senzoku lake with you once more.

But as I said circumstances make it impossible for that now."

"I have learned that happiness does not come with money as I used to believe but that it comes from a struggle born out of the fight for the emancipation of mankind from the shackles of war and capitalist exploitation," he added.

Throughout the long letter, Batchelor intimated he had a plan to be with Kyoko again—possibly in a Communist country.

She Hates Communism

Kyoko said she would not go to Red China to meet Batchelor, or to the Japanese Communist party for information.

"I'll do anything to get him back. I'll go to the neutral zone to see him. But I won't go to Communist China. I hate communism," she scowled.

The Americans have refused to attend interviews until the Korean protest is settled and the Koreans have been interviewed. Even if the dispute were ironed out Monday they would be only two days left for allied teams to talk with 77 South Koreans, 22 Americans and 1 Briton.

Herents before yielding to a pair of last minute baskets by the brilliant center.

Newburgh led all the way but with 90 seconds remaining, the Monties crept to 62-60. The Academys went into a semi-freeze then abandoned it and shook Burkosi loose for the two clinching baskets. Mandy Ringle, Monticello's classy young star, tallied 26.

Lee Benton (14) sparked Fallsburg's 59-47 conquest of Port Jervis. Jim Britt led the Red and Black with 11.

All teams now take a holiday recess until Jan. 8 when Kingston travels to Middletown and Poughkeepsie entertains Liberty.

Newburgh had a battle on its hands to stave off Monticello, 66-60, in the NFA gym. In the other game, Fallsburg squared its record at 2-2 with a 59-47 decision over Port Jervis.

Brodhead Hits 19

Coach G. Warren Kias' production men—Skip Brodhead and Dick Bezemer—contributed 32 points to the cause. John Godwin was in double figures for the second straight game but it was the sparkling play of substitute Jack Houghtaling that heartened Maroon rooters.

Houghtaling entered the game in the second period and contributed nine points. He demonstrated that Coach Kias has another dependable sub and adds further depth to the squad that already counts on Ray Lawrence and Bucky Miller as topflight firemen.

Brodhead led the Maroons with 19 points and Godwin hooped 13. Bezemer finished with 17 but Ivan Yankowitz, the Redskin center, gave him sonnips enough to a 23-point performance for game high. Tudor rimmed 12 for the mountaineers.

Hot Second Half

Pressed in the first quarter when they led 15-13, the Maroons got progressively better. They piled up a 19-11 edge in the second quarter to hold a 34-22 margin at half-time.

The second half saw the Maroons jell for the kind of team it will take to stand off the challenge of Poughkeepsie and Newburgh for the conference crown. Fifty points in the second half turned the game into a rout and gave Coach Kias a chance to unload his bench.

Harry LaForge made his presence felt with 8 points and Herbie Waterous, making his first appearance of the season, added five points. Ray Lawrence hit with eight.

It was solid team victory, exposing the 1953-54 KHS squad as one with more depth than any in recent years. The big problem remains to select the best five to stand off the Bridge City titans.

Mendez Hite 33

Gary Mendez, the 6 foot 4 Poughkeepsie ace, set a seasonal record for the DUSO with 33 points at Ellenville. A somewhat subdued Bob Dahowski hit only 13.

Ellenville's top scorer was not Bob Pomeroy but Gary Ettor with 13. The final score doesn't begin to tell the story of Poughkeepsie's superiority. It was 40-15 at the half and Sam Kalloch's subs played the Ellies on even terms after the recess.

Despite "Mickey 'The Marvel" Burkosi's 24 points, Monticello threw a real scare into NFA ad-

Lead NHL

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings held a two point lead over the Montreal Canadiens in the hot battle for first place in the National Hockey League today. But their undisputed lead may be short lived.

The Wings picked on their favorite pastimes, the Chicago Black Hawks, 3-1 last night to move into sole possession of the top spot for the first time since Dec. 3.

Last night's game at Indianapolis, which drew 8,388 customers, was in the nature of an experiment. The Hawks, averaging only slightly better than 5,000 at home, are reported to be casting anxious eyes in the direction of Indiana City.

"Over 21 Years Service"

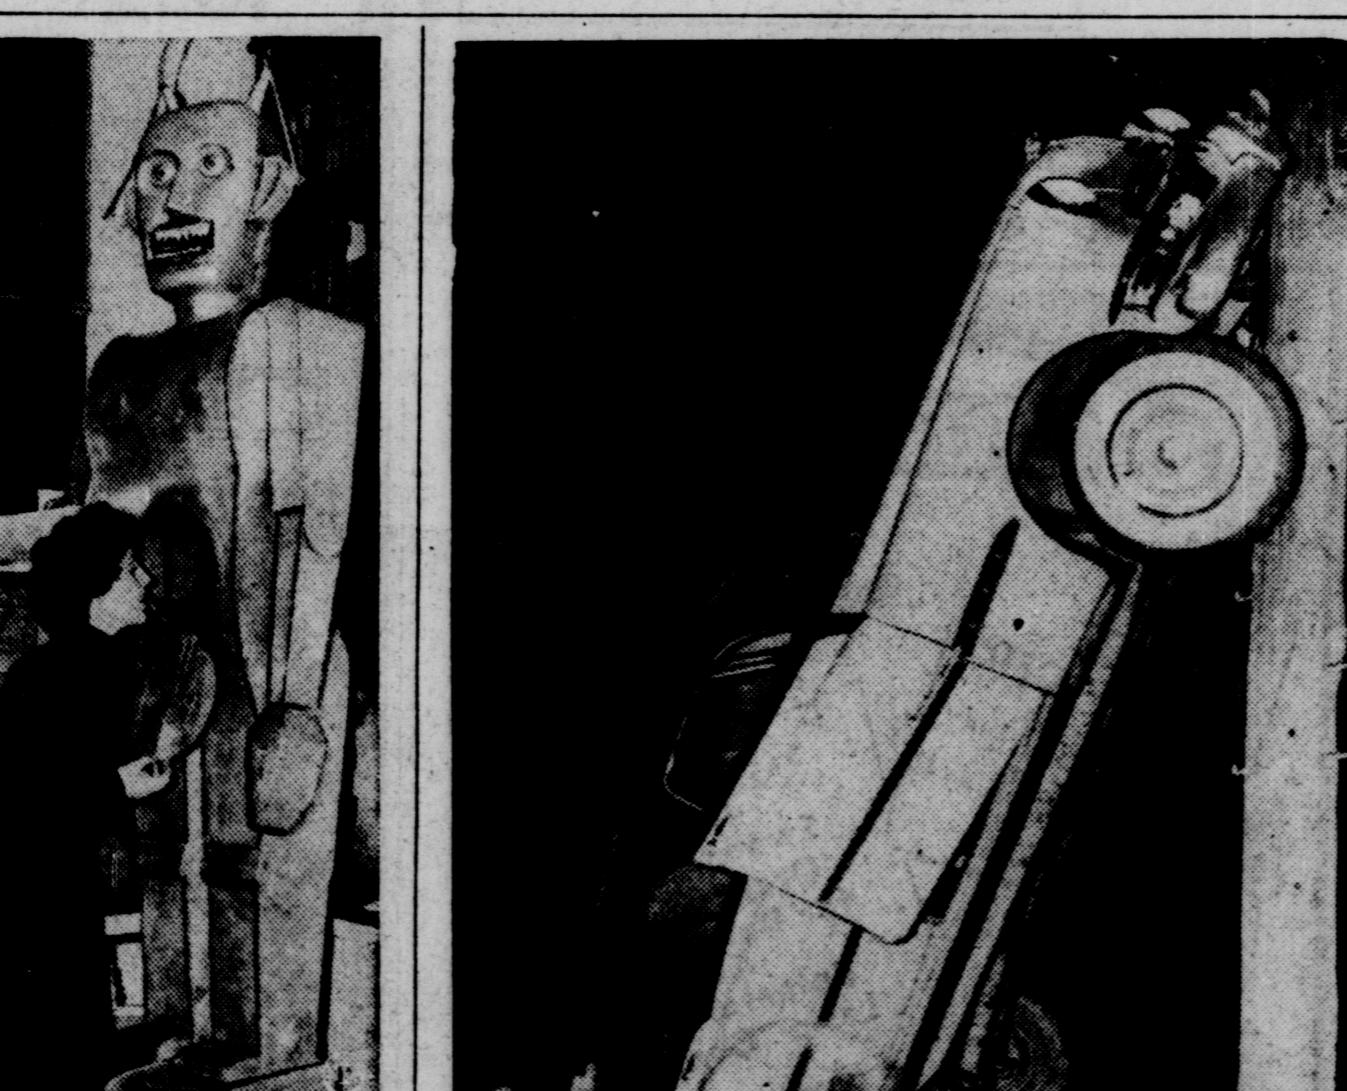

LIGHT TOUCH—Considered the largest "chandelier" ever installed is this huge electric lighting unit now serving the Engineering Library at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass. Hanging 51 feet below the skylight of M.I.T.'s great dome, it consists of a great dish of corrugated translucent plastic 48 feet in diameter. Above this are mounted 236 fluorescent lamps, using about 14 kilowatts of power. The long fins seen in the photo are hollow metal acoustical baffles to reduce echoes in the room.

BEST IN BELGIAN TAPESTRY—Designed by Peter Kolfs, this tapestry is being exhibited in Malines, Belgium, after which it will be offered to the UN. It was chosen as the best of 80 works displayed for the benefit of the Belgian government, and took 40,000 working hours to complete. In the center of the tapestry is a female figure representing life, which separates two male figures, symbolizing two nations at war. Included in the tapestry are the weaver's conception of well-known sights in various parts of the world.

AVIATION PROGRESS ON DISPLAY—Exactly 41 years of aviation progress flies by as a jet-powered B-47 zips past a 1912 pusher-type plane over Washington, D. C. The small plane, piloted by its owner, Billy Parker, can stay in the air for an hour and a half, has a ceiling between 8000-9000 feet, with a top speed of 65 miles per hour. The B-47, in contrast, has a range of more than 3000 miles and can operate at altitudes above 40,000 feet.

ALMOST HUMAN—Pretty Valerie Argence is in for a great disappointment if she expects her new boy friend, "Gustave," to have a heart. All she'll find is wire and electric equipment which make Gus almost human. The eight-foot monster, on exhibit at a Paris, France, library, astounds visitors by opening his mouth, walking and carrying a girl in his arms.

To prevent tears in linoleum, apply strips of adhesive or cloth masking tape along the underside at the corners.

POLE CLIMBER—Believe it or not, Charles Weaver, of Syracuse, N. Y., only suffered bruises when his car slid up this light-pole guy wire. Only the rear bumper rests on the ground after the freak accident. Witnesses said Weaver bounced three times when he fell from the car.

How do you feel about burglars?

It's foolish to own fine things and then worry about their being stolen.

LET US WORRY ABOUT THAT FOR YOU. Let us write a policy for you which will take the sting out of loss of household goods, personal effects, clothing, jewelry, furs, silverware, etc. It covers burglary, robbery, theft and MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE (which is considered to be theft).

It may also include holdup and theft away from home, and covers all members of your immediate family residing with you. And you'll be amazed how little this policy costs. Ask us.
